Easter.—To-morrow being Easter day, the Christian nations of the world will celebrate one of the principal feasts of the church and in every quarter of the globe the day will be honored by rite and ceremony after the pecular custom of the people thereabouts. In Catholic countries and communities and in lands and places professing the faith of the Church of England the day will be one of high ceremony, celebrated with song and psalm and with altars heaped high with flowers symbolical of the occasion. In this city, aside from the religious character of the occasion will take another feature. casion, the day will take another feature. Society will lay aside her gown of sackcloth, tastefully made, you may be sure, shake the ashes from her hair, lift her eyes that have been lowered so demurely for forty days and array her-self in bright colors such as Solomon in all his glory dared hardly dream of. The streets will be througed with mas-terpieces of the modiste that will swish by with merry crinkle of stiff skirts and leave an odor of violets and lilies of the valley in their wake. The churches will blossom as a garden with floral headgear and the colors of the rainbow will take pointers from multi-hued silk waists. Every woman will go to church, some to worship and some to see those who come to worship. There'll be men at church, too. Hard hearted will he be, indeed, who cannot experience some measure of sympathy in the feeling of gratification over good clothes and new effects which possesses his wife and daughters and the feminine world gen erally. The Episcopal and Catholic churches of this city make elaborate preparations for the celebration of Easter ceremonies and other denominations in lesser degrees of rite and ceremony acknowledge the day and the symbol of its observance. Music and services of song are principal features in all churches, and the humblest chapel sings its Easter hymn.
